(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

PICKING up a newspaper you ask yourself, "What really is news?" For instance, that the very Rev. Dean Inge said it may be necessary for the countries of Europe "to combine to draw Shylock's teeth." Shylock is Uncle Sam, who modestly asks Europe to pay part of a ten-billion-dollar debt of honor.

BRITISH clergymen unite to repudiate Dean Inge's statements, and say they like us. That is hardly news. Our British friends tried the tooth-pulling process in 1776, when Uncle Sam was small; again in 1912. They are probably too kind-hearted to try it again.

A NEW vaccine prevents distemper in dogs absolutely, "all cases, all breeds." That's not important news, except to dogs. A vaccine that would keep dogs from going mad and biting children would be more valuable.

AN Englishman with all of his stomach removed is back at work with "the upper part of his small intestine stitched to the gullet." The digestive glands were left in, so he digests and lives.

WHAT we need in this prosperous country is something to digest all the food we put into our stomachs. Learn from the stomachless Briton that it is important to take care of your digestive glands. Don't tire them out with irregular eating.

MARSHALL FOCH, his courage concerning illness, is out of bed, enjoying the sight of the French people that he loves. That's important news, for it shows that patriotism and ability constitute greatness. Foch is a great man.

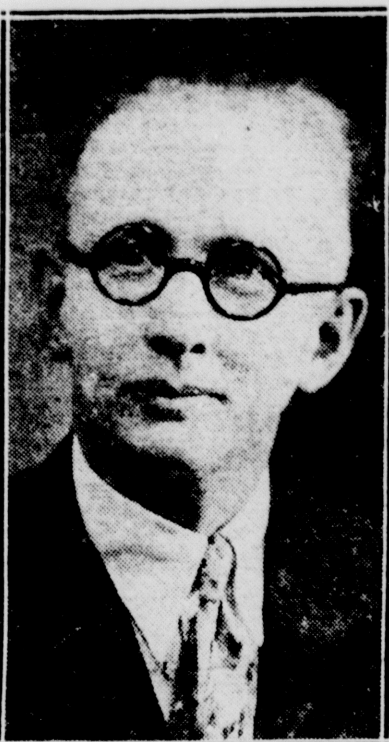

PROF. BARNES told scientists gathered in New York that men must choose their concept of God. Now he tells Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, head of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and Cardinal Hayes, who rebuked him, and all clergy in general, that religion is out of date, hinders the progress of civilization and is "primitive and superstitious."

IN addition, this professor who teaches history at Smith college says the ten commandments need revision and orthodox religion increases human suffering, being based on "fears and superstitions which obviously have not the slightest scientific validity, but terrorize countless millions."

NEVERTHELESS churches will be open next Sunday and religion will continue to rule the world long after Prof. Barnes travels on beyond, to learn, perhaps, more than he knows now.

FOR two hundred years William of Orange had stood on Colledge Green in Dublin, on his war horse. Sometimes the Irish Nationalists pulled the statue down and battered it. Then the statue was put up again.

WOMAN INJURED IN 14-FOOT FALL

Mrs. William C. Allison, 329 West Third street, sustained cuts to her face and head when she fell 14 feet from the front porch of her home to the sidewalk at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Allison was leaning over the edge of the porch when her foot slipped and she plunged headlong to the brick walk. Fred Eardley, Fourth street photographer, who was passing and saw the accident, and Homer Smith, Third street, a brother of the victim, carried Mrs. Allison to her home and summoned Dr. Clyde Larkins.

Mrs. Allison was taken to the City hospital today for an X-ray examination.

Former Sheriff and Mrs. George Wright, East Third street, left today for a six-week trip to Florida and Cuba. They will witness the inauguration of President-elect Herbert Hoover at Washington on March 4 before returning home.

SECOND JUDGE PROPOSAL HIT BY LAWYERS IN LISBON MEET

Attorneys in Northern Part of County Oppose Plan.

NAME COMMITTEE

State Representative
Van Fossan Defines Attitude.

Opposition to the proposed second common pleas judgeship was voiced by lawyers of the northern part of Columbiana county at a meeting in the courthouse at Lisbon yesterday afternoon.

L. P. Metzgar, of Salem, who presided, was instructed to appoint a committee of five attorneys to confer with members of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association. The latter organization has endorsed the proposal.

Van Fossan's Statement.
State Representative W. H. Van Fossan, who has been asked to introduce the bill at the present session of the legislature, outlined his attitude in the following statement today:

"I have told friends of the measure that I would support it only on condition that a second judge seemed to be really necessary. I take it that every good citizen would favor giving to our present judge all the assistance he needs for the administration of justice. We owe this to ourselves as well as to him. As I see it, the main question simply is, is there enough work to keep two judges busy throughout the year? I want to be certain as I can that my action in this matter shall be for the best interests of all the people of the county. I shall surely not favor the measure and the expense that would be incurred, unless I can be shown that the facts in the case clearly justify me in doing so."

Committee to Investigate.
Some lawyers of the northern part of the county, after the session yesterday, were outspoken in their opposition to the plan.

While it was admitted that the county had a heavy bar docket, it was also pointed out that if attorneys would try cases when they were assigned hearings would be made in relieving the situation.

The committee to be named will investigate the proposal sponsored by lawyers in the southern part of the county.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLAN.
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Radio flashes revealed with dramatic suddenness today that sturdy ships and stout hearts of sea-faring men are winning a grim battle over a north Atlantic hurricane which took one vessel and 30 lives as its toll, and put two other ships in distress.

After nine hours of silence from rescue ships that gave rise to grave fears, the heartening news crackled through the ether shortly before noon that the American tanker Dannelake "is proceeding to Bermuda."

That meant the Dannelake with 32 aboard had been rescued, or had repaired itself. Hours before—about noon yesterday—the Dannelake had vanished at S. O. S. "We are sinking help!"

Driver's Statement.
The tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon at a crossing about two miles east of here. Edward Butler, of Cleveland, was driving his cross country Greyhound bus, the "Jack Rabbit" on the usual run from Detroit to Pittsburgh, via Toledo and Cleveland.

The air was thick with snow, and Butler says that he stopped his bus, got out and wiped the windshield. Three tracks, the New York Central, Wheeling & Lake Erie and Lake Shore Electric, cross the road at that point.

Butler says he looked both ways, saw nothing, returned to his bus and started across.

A speeding Lake Shore Electric car, running on a limited schedule, struck the big coach squarely, crushing it like an egg shell and tearing it almost in two.

Car Coach Crowded.
The traction car, traveling at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour, was derailed and came to rest atop the wreckage of the bus. Passengers on the trolley were thrown from their seats. A. W. Van Valkenberg, of Green Springs, O., was the most seriously injured, suffering several fractures.

Good for Children Who Are Pale, Puny

Mother and Dad—have you a pale, skinny, rundown child in your family? No, you can't say the youngster is seriously sick, but somehow he never seems to have the strength and energy to play like other kids, he seldom eats a hearty meal, just "picks" at his food. He's way behind in his school work—often gets cross and restless.

Poor kiddie! All he needs is McCoy's Tablets—that stimulating health-builder and energizing tonic which gives his frail, sickly body and bones the nourishment he can't possibly get from his food.

If you need more flesh, are rundown, weak, nervous and feeling miserable, you can get 60 McCoy's Tablets for 60 cents at Mathews Medicine Store or any drugstore in America. You can take these tablets for 30 days—then if you are not satisfied with the improvement in health—get your money back.

Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the First Church of Christ, spoke convincingly of "The Evidence of the New Birth" at the revival services last night.

"Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God which liveth and abideth forever," 1 Peter 1:23, were the words of his text.

An appealing musical service featured the preliminary interim to the sermon. It was directed by H. C. Biard, Oklahoma singer, with Mrs. Biard as accompanist.

In addition to the regular, a junior choral organization occupied seats in front of the platform, making a situation for the minister of singers in front of him and singers behind him with those in audience practically all about him to volley forth melodiously the Gospel of song.

Session of Juniors

In the afternoon also a preliminary session of the juniors of the church assembled under the supervision of Mrs. Biard in preparation for an active night next week with themselves taking the lead in the preliminary program.

The evening's solo, "It Is Wonderful," was contributed by Mr. Biard with Mrs. Biard accompanying.

During their stay in the city Mr. and Mrs. Biard are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith, of College street.

"The Unpardonable Sin," will be the subject of tonight's discourse by the Rev. Mr. Baker. The Brotherhood Sunday school class, taught by him, will attend the meeting in a body.

That the basic and foundation evidence of a new birth in the human soul is the word of God itself was declared by the Rev. Mr. Baker.

Truth of God's Words

"The verity and truth of God's own words make the profoundest evidence of a new birth," he said, "His statement requires such a change in sinners and they also exclude those not experiencing it."

He averred also that there existed in the subsequent lives of those born again corroborative evidence of such a fact.

"Those born again are discernable as such by the way in which they live and conduct their mundane affairs," he explained. "The man born

Grade Crossing Toll Mounts

The Ohio grade crossing toll of lives, which in the period from 1924 to October 1, 1928, reached a total of 1,288, was increased yesterday afternoon by a fatal crash between a Detroit-Pittsburgh Greyhound bus and a Lake Shore electric car near Bellevue. Nineteen persons were killed and 11 others badly injured.

According to press reports, the driver of the motor coach, on this line, which operates through East Liverpool, tried to stop at the crossing, but the big bus skidded onto the tracks into the path of the oncoming electric car during a blinding snowstorm.

Responsibility for the fatal crash will be fixed in state, county and private investigations, and until all the facts are known judgment must be reserved. But the accident emphasizes the need of caution on the part of motor car drivers at all grade crossings.

As the Ohio Automobile association points out in warning of the dangers at grade crossings, which have exacted 13 lives in Columbiana county during the last four years, motorists apparently never take into consideration the greater speed at which trains and trolley cars are traveling today. Railroad trains, it is said, approach crossings at a rate of 88 feet a second, based on a speed of 60 miles an hour. And the ratio is the same in a slightly less degree when the train or trolley car travels 40 to 50 miles an hour.

Bus drivers, as a rule, change gears at a railroad crossing after stopping their cars. Too often other motorists fail to observe this common sense rule of safety.

Until grade crossings are eliminated, and because of the expense involved in this undertaking it probably will be many years before success will mark the campaign now being waged, all operators of motor vehicles should "stop, look and listen" before attempting to cross railroad or street car tracks.

Economic Future

The new year is well under way and the nation is looking forward with more or less confidence as to the economic future of the country. That the nation is justified in such confidence is seen in every development of recent weeks and months.

Change of administration on March 4 will be accomplished without an interruption of the official and private business of the nation. It is not anticipated there will be any radical changes in the policies of the incoming administration, and for this reason the people in general are expecting business as usual after Mr. Hoover is inducted into office.

One of the best ways of judging the future is by the past, and the year which recently ended was a satisfactory one. The campaign brought no interruption of business and the progress of the country continued without abatement. The same ought to be the case in 1929.

During last year production gained seven per cent over the high figures of 1927. The motor car industry increased its business thirty per cent. The industrial activity of the last month of last year was seven per cent greater than the activity in December, 1927, which is one of the most encouraging signs of the industrial future. On the basis of the normal gain last year over the preceding year, it is confidently predicted that the first quarter of 1929 will make even a better showing.

Heads of various industrial groups of the country, according to newspaper comment, are confident the business outlook for this year is better than at the corresponding period of last year. It is well to remember, too, in this connection, that confidence is at least half the battle, if not more. It is reasonable, therefore, to expect general prosperity this year.

Constructive assistance is expected of the incoming administration and there is no reason to feel that the country will not get it. This is no time to sell Uncle Sam short.

Harding Memorial Highway

From Denver came the announcement, last week, that the Harding Memorial highway to the summit of Mt. Evans, the towering, snow-capped peak 50 miles beyond and almost directly west of that city, will be completed the coming summer. The highway has already been constructed as far as Summit lake, the altitude of which is 12,740 feet, and when the remaining five miles have been completed at an approximate grade of 300 feet to the mile it will overtop the famous Pike's Peak road, which has an extreme altitude of 14,110 feet, by 90 feet and be the highest scenic motor road in the United States and very probably the highest in the world.

The Harding Memorial highway, says the announcement, is one of the major undertakings Colorado has sponsored to make the Rocky mountains available to the world.

If Colorado can thus do honor to the memory of the late president, how can his own home state do less? The Colorado highway is not only being constructed as a memorial to the late President Harding, but it is also being so marked. Through Ohio we have a great highway named after him, but it is not so designated. In fact, it is marked only by route number, and there is nothing to show that it ever bore other designation. Why should it not be marked to show its name and be made known to travelers for what it is, the one great highway from coast to coast?

Stage Loses Three Favorites

Death has drawn heavily upon the American stage in recent months. Robert B. Mantell, Holbrook Blinn, Leo Dietrichstein, all of whom had attained eminence, were taken almost together. Then came the death of Theodore Roberts, veteran of the stage and screen alike. Two weeks ago, Marc McDermott, who, like Roberts, was as well known under the klieg lights as behind the footlight, died. About 10 days ago occurred the death of Wallace Eddinger and later Timothy Murphy answered the last call.

Of the three taken recently, Tim Murphy was easily the foremost in ability. He supported Mrs. Fiske in two of her greatest successes, but it was during the years that he headed his own company that he reached the zenith of his fame. Murphy, who gave up the stage three years ago following the death of his wife, was a native of Vermont and an adopted son of Texas. He began his stage career at 21 at Tony Pastor's theater in New York City.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23—Now that an extra session of congress, after March 4, is assured, it is practically a certainty that tariff revision will be undertaken and that, therefore, congress will be with us here at Washington for some months because to open the tariff question, unless the extent of revision be specifically agreed upon at first, is to open a Pandora's box. The ways and means committee of the house of representatives already has begun hearings on a general tariff revision bill.

This tariff revision is likely to prove different from any previous one. The tariff as a direct issue between the two major political parties has ceased to exist. At one time it was the chief, sometimes the only issue in presidential elections, the Republicans pledging a high protective tariff for anybody who could show that he needed protection and the Democrats promising the lowering of the tariff walls to let goods come in at low rates or entirely free from foreign countries. The Republicans claimed such a policy would close American factories, throw men out of employment, and cause general depression. The Democrats claimed that the tariff made profiteering easy and industrial barons rich while free trade or tariff for revenue only would lower the cost of living.

The tune has changed all around. Both parties now say that some industries must have protection, both agree that reduction might profitably be made on some articles.

It is an astonishing thing that the policy of the United States has been completely reversed in the matter of tariff application. From 1789 to 1860 the customs' duties collected on imports provided 86 per cent of the federal revenue. For the period 1914 to 1927 they contributed but 19.6 per cent.

So solid is the federal union today that it seems inconceivable that, in its infancy, the United States dared not tax its people in any direct manner. It disguised collections by a tariff on foreign imports and many people doubtless had the idea that the foreigner paid the duty. Even so, only a very low tariff was imposed but the expenses of the government were almost infinitesimal compared with what they are now. The federal government did not engage in one-tenth of one per cent of the activities in which it now engages.

But the idea of taxes sufficient to run the government levied on the people of the several states was preposterous. This was a right which they insisted upon retaining. They had seceded from England on the issue of taxation. Had heavy direct taxes been levied, undoubtedly most of the states would have seceded. Some of them came very near doing so at the time of the war of 1812. A solid block of them, the Confederacy, actually did in 1861. The states once so sovereign, have fallen a long way from that high estate.

After the war of 1812 had been won, the federal government sat more firmly in the saddle. From 1818 to 1832 a protectionist policy prevailed. Alexander Hamilton in his famous report on manufactures, outlined a protective tariff policy. Industry had been slow to rise, the people, many of whom were still very pro-British in sympathies, preferring to get goods from home, as many still termed England. They appeared content to remain farmers, selling farm products abroad and buying manufactures from Europe. It was a difficult task to weld the states together.

It was the tariff which to some extent gave rise to the nullification movement led by South Carolina. In 1827 congress had passed what was called an "extravagant tariff bill," imposing the highest tariff in the brief history of the country up to that time. There was much discontent over the alien and sedition laws and several of the states were restless. Believers in the Union were seriously alarmed.

In those days the Democrats had their annual dinner on Jefferson's birthday, April 13. As the time for the dinner approached, the air was electric with excitement and many thought that the nullification speakers at the dinner would receive such ovations that they would carry the day. It must be remembered that their leader was the great Calhoun and that they had behind them a long tradition of states' rights. Many believed that the dinner would result in the backing down of the administration and an early lowering of the tariff.

It did not. At state dinners in those days the speeches were in the form of toasts—some of them rather lengthy but retaining, through politeness, the form of a toast. Some highly nullificationist toasts were given and the nullifiers were feeling themselves in the majority. Of the twenty-four toasts of the evening all but seven were for partial or outright nullification or insistence on the right of a state over the federal government. The president was called upon. He lifted his glass and gave "Our Federal Union—It must be preserved." That toast, was the briefest given that night. It is carved on the pedestal of the Jackson Monument which stands in the center of Lafayette Square, directly in front of the White House.

The high tariff stood and infant industries in the United States began to grow up. There was scarcely any labor-saving machinery in the world at that time and had it not been for Gen. Jackson's firm attitude on the tariff it is likely there would be much less than there is today because the rise of industry began invention prolifically and the United States is responsible for more inventions than any other nation in the world. In consequence, it is the richest nation in the world.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

At Sea—Pog as thick as pea soup today. And every three minutes the creak of the horn—like a giant bull bellow. A storm gives a warning but a ship in the fog has the helplessness of a blindfolded man groping toward a precipice. The deck is a blurry mist, and after apologizing to several posts, I left it flat.

In the writing room I came upon the trail of something or other. An abandoned letter head contained this feminine scrawl: "Booful baby—is too tumlin for oo isum Bright Eyes forissy-bitsy cocktail at 5. P. M. — and then it ended abruptly. Probably one of those misunderstandings of a home husband's abroad.

While nibbling the end of a pen—I can never think of a seal to write to on a ship—a silver-haired gentleman with black pinpoints asked for my blotter as prelude to conversation. He has something to do with diamond mines in Kimberly and wanted me to look at a prospectus. He didn't know I'm a Scotch boy.

Today I went shopping. I bought a snack in the middle of the ocean. As you've probably heard at least twice, a great liner is a floating city. One may shop at a variety of little stores for everything from perfume to fur coats. There are barbers, manicurists, doctors, a dentist, masseurs, gymnasiums, stenographers and notaries public.

There is a movie show every day, the benefit concert with usually remarkable talent, tennis squash, a swimming pool and the usual variety of deck games and professional boxing. Tea dancing and cabaret. Also Catholic, Protestant and Christian Science religious services.

On the top deck is a kennel for dogs in charge of a veterinary. Small dogs are permitted in cabins. American railroads could stimulate much good will by observing the same tolerance trans-Atlantic liners show household pets. Many Americans do their traveling abroad for this reason.

There are some 20 dogs, a pet fox, two marmosets and a variety of birds aboard. And down in the steerage an old fellow, who could match whiskers with Trader Horn and have enough left over to stuff a pillow. Has a pet lizard he is reported to carry in his beard. I must drop down.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Not long ago I talked with a friend of mine in Washington. He told me a remarkable thing. This man has so trained himself that, any time he wills, he can shut his eyes and lapse into absolute unconsciousness.

This is almost an unheard of gift. It means everything to his possessor. No matter how strenuous may be his day, nor how tumultuous his life, he can give himself two minutes of absolute relaxation whenever he feels his need.

You and I may not be able to gain such control over our faculties as this. It is our own fault, however, if we do not learn how to rest.

The other day I talked to you about diversion, a complete change for a day or a week or longer. That is not the thing I am talking about now. What I want to impress on you now is that out of each and every 24 hours there should be at least 8 hours, and even 10 hours of complete relaxation.

I have no patience with those strenuous people who say they can get along with four or five hours of sleep. They seem to think that unless you work 15 or 18 hours a day you are lazy. These smug individuals imagine themselves as tremendous producers because they spend twice as much time at work as the average man does. It is all nonsense. I venture to say that the average individual who applies himself conscientiously to his duties for six or eight hours a day will accomplish twice as much work in the long run as the man who works 14 or 15 hours every day.

The human brain and the human nervous system and the human heart and the human kidneys and the human stomach and the human muscles will not tolerate for ever and ever the wicked strain of excessive hours of work.

Nature is exceedingly kind and long suffering. Nature will accept an occasional period of over-strenuous effort. But it is just as sure as death and taxes that Nature will not continue to smile at the man or woman who foolishly and wickedly exhausts body and mind.

I beg of you to order your life in such a way as to have regular periods of relaxation. Even though you

Avoid Trite Phrases.

Most of the business letters sent out are so ordinary, so cold and so routine in phrasing that all in a day's mail might have been turned out to a greater or less degree by the same person.

An original touch, the human element and variation of pattern would enhance appeal and increase the power of conviction.

Cold facts, coming letter after letter, much in the same sequence and style phraseology have a deadening effect upon those who read them. There should not be an attempt to write smart letters—letters which give the impression that the writer is trying to present something bright and sparklingly different.

But business letters need not adhere to hard and set rules of business correspondence when a word or a line of real human touch might make them more attractive.

Studied effort does not create a favorable impression.

But a feeling of direct words-of-mouth with the writer of a business letter establishes a warmer contact.

The man who is natural in his dictation creates the best feeling for his goods, himself and his company. It is a favorable advertisement for the firm.

CIVIC MUSIC SOLOISTS SCORE

A crowd which filled almost every seat in the high school auditorium attended the concert given by Moissaye Boguslawski, Russian pianist, and Miss Gladys Swarthout, mezzo soprano, under the auspices of the Civic Music association last night.

Boguslawski substituted for Charles Naegele, American pianist, who was forced to cancel his engagement because of an attack of rheumatism. He is an artist in every sense of the term.

Among Boguslawski's most popular numbers was his "Polonaise" by Chopin, in which he gave a musical panorama of Poland's struggle for freedom, the middle section depicting the artillery in the distance, the song of sorrow and anguish and the triumphant march of conquest. As an encore to this number he offered a Turkish march, by Mozart, "The Chase," by Paganini-Liszt, and Rhapsodie No. 2, also by Liszt, were enthusiastically received.

Miss Swarthout, who is a former member of the Chicago Civic and the Ravinia Opera companies, sang English, German, Italian and Spanish selections. Possessing a voice of unusual range she scored hit after hit in each of her presentations.

Her most popular numbers were solos in English, "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer; "O That It Were So," by Bridge; "Holy Child," by Martin, and "Moon Marketing," by Weaver.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

"Folks, how can I make Whoopee up here . . . when down in front the 'coughers' are whooping?"

"Maybe the audience would be grateful if I stepped to the footlights some night and voiced the above protest about the 'coughing chorus' down in front.

"But that wouldn't be kind and it wouldn't be just. The cougher doesn't cough in public on purpose. He can't help it. It embarrasses him as much as it annoys his neighbors.

Demand for Vicks Supplies Good Index to Spread of Flu

An interesting sidelight on the present influenza epidemic has been the accuracy with which the demand for Vicks VapoRub reflects the flu situation in various parts of the country. Vicks is the external treatment which proved so helpful in 1918.

Last November, rush orders from the Pacific Coast for more and more Vicks told of the beginning of a new epidemic. As the flu moved east, sudden increases in the demand for Vicks marked its spread from state to state.

Now that influenza has become fairly general, it is once more necessary, in spite of vastly increased capacity, to run the Vicks laboratories all night long, as the public now demands over 375,000 jars every 24 hours.—Adv.

"For two years I had no appetite; nothing agreed with me, and daily headaches and dizziness caused me intense suffering. How to Stop It—Read This.

It may surprise you to know high blood pressure is so serious that insurance companies refuse to issue policies to those who have it. All because it shortens life.

High blood pressure gives little warning and until certain symptoms take hold, you do not know it. They are head pains, flushed face, hot flashes, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness.

Norma is a physician's prescription. It worked so wonderfully in his personal practice that it has now been placed in drug stores so that people everywhere can obtain it. Check the sincerity of high blood pressure by reducing it with Norma—Adv.

HOOVER RESTS ON BELLE ISLE, BISCAYNE BAY

President-elect Turns His Back on All Engagements.

IDEAL RETREAT

Penney Estate Made to Order for Quiet and Solitude.

By George R. Holmes.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23.—Herbert Hoover went into seclusion today.

On Belle Isle, in the middle of Biscayne bay, the president-elect turned his back on all engagements, settled himself to all visitors, and dented down to a month's relaxation and contemplation of the problems that will be his after the fourth of March next. He plans to do a lot of fishing, but not even this activity could entice him today away from the luxurious lodge that is to be his home for the next four weeks.

Mr. Hoover's pre-inaugural retreat is ideally situated for his purpose. He wants quiet and solitude. The Penney estate on Belle Isle was made to order for him. There is but one entrance to it, and that is guarded by secret service operatives and Florida state police. Callers must identify themselves and disclose their business, if any, before being admitted to the grounds. All around him are the blue waters of the bay.

Causeway to Island.

The island is reached only by a causeway over which there is comparatively little traffic.

In this sub-tropical setting, with its waving palms and masses of flowers, during the next four weeks, Mr. Hoover will mull over the tons of data which he brought south with him after two weeks of conferences with the politicians of Washington. Here the cabinet changes of a score of aspirants are to be weighed in the balance and the policies of the new administration upon a score of problems probably to be determined.

Given Great Welcome.

Mr. Hoover was greatly pleased by his welcome to Florida which outdid even the elaborate reception which was given to President Coolidge on his "leaving visit" of last year. It has been several years since the state, and particularly Miami Beach, has had an opportunity to entertain a chief executive and it is making the most of it.

Upwards of 50,000 persons lined the streets and the causeway yesterday when Mr. Hoover arrived, following what amounted almost to a triumphal tour down the east coast. He was greeted by the mayors of the twin cities, given the keys to both, as well as an expensive fishing outfit which he hopes to utilize later during his stay.

Tomorrow Mr. Hoover hopes to get in some fishing. Today he planned to get acquainted with his island and the surroundings. He had no engagements and no scheduled callers.

BELLBOY CRUSHED IN ELEVATOR

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 23.—Lawrence Hale, 17, colored bellboy, was fatally injured today when he was caught in the freight elevator of a local hotel.

The body, wedged between the lift and the floor, was found by a waiter. Details of the accident are lacking, as none witnessed the fatal mishap.

TODAY

THAT'S a pity. Irishmen of all kinds should keep in Dublin a state of good old William, if only to remind them that when Ireland lost the battle of the Boyne, it was William, a Dutchman, that led the English and an English king, commanding the Irish, that ran away while the Irish were still fighting.

THIS is the day of mass production. The Muskegon Piston Ring company has orders from the Chevrolet company for 60,000 rings a day, another order for 100,000 rings a day to supply old model T Ford cars, of which 8,000,000 are still running, and 90,000 rings a day for new Fords and Fordsons. That means 250,000 piston rings a day, more than 75,000,000 a year.

SOME people laughed when Henry Ford said he meant to build 10,000 automobiles. Automobile makers said he would ruin the business, destroying its credit by such extravagant statements. He has since made 15,000,000 cars.

DR. LITTLE, head of the University of Michigan, one of the youngest American university presidents, resigns.

He advocated a "same form of birth control," didn't want students to use motor cars, objected to an alleged blacklist of the Daughters of the American Revolution that probably would have kept Franklin, Jefferson and surely Tom Paine from addressing the daughters.

Dr. Little will find a job somewhere else—perhaps farther west.

THAT vigorous "little girl," Texas Guinan of the night clubs, has beaten cruel Uncle Sam's effort to prove that she conspired to defeat the prohibition law. Thirty others arrested and accused are also released, and will live to dispense liquid refreshment another day.

IT IS easy for detectives to get evidence if they have public money to spend getting it. But it seems difficult to convince a judge and jury.

CRASH ENDS CRIME CAREER

Bus Victim Tells Nurse He Robbed Detroit Bank.

BELLEVUE, O., Jan. 23.—The motor bus-electric car crash here yesterday brought a lifelong career of crime to an end, according to a deathbed statement from Teddy Brawski, 251, Nassau street, Brooklyn, who succumbed to injuries in Bellevue hospital this morning.

Shortly before midnight Brawski called nurses to his bedside and predicted he would die at 5 o'clock this morning, they reported.

He added that he and three other men had robbed a bank at Detroit, the names related, and that two of the men were killed. He and a companion fled to Flint, Mich., Brawski said, but police followed and they continued their flight to Connecticut where they hid $46,000, according to the story. He refused to give any names or dates.

Later, he said, he wandered about the country in an effort to elude police.

He also said that he participated in a bank robbery in San Francisco in 1920 and that he had been a "hold-up man" all his life.

Brawski died at 5:05 a. m.

Every occupant of the bus was either killed or injured. The survivors worked frantically, with numb bleeding fingers, to extricate the dead and dying. A number of the victims were transferred temporarily to nearby houses. Passing motorists sped into Bellevue and Norwalk with news of the tragedy.

Three Investigations.

Three separate investigations were under way today, while a fourth is pending. The Lake Shore Electric will conduct its inquiry at Sandusky, the Greyhound will question witnesses here and the state utilities commission will also probe the disaster.

The state investigators are headed by L. B. Smith, of Columbus, and others are: John J. Briggs and P. V. Thompson, Columbus; Earl J. Gelong, Milan, and Thomas Stahl, Toledo.

S. R. Sundstrom, Cleveland, and two Toledo attorneys represent the Greyhound lines.

Coroner C. L. Bell and Prosecutor Edgar Martin, of Huron county, said they probably would withhold their investigation for a few days.

Silver Arrow Driver Injured.

Eastbound Silver Arrow Pittsburgh-Detroit bus, due here at 6 o'clock, was delayed for more than three hours last night because of the bus-trolley crash near Bellevue, yesterday afternoon in which 19 persons were killed and 11 others injured.

The Silver Arrow bus, which travels over the same route as the ill-fated Greyhound bus as far as Canton, passed over the crossing about a half hour before the crash. Upon reaching the next town, the driver heard of the accident and returned to aid the injured. He took the body of one of the victims, a woman, to a morgue, before resuming his trip eastward.

The bus arrived here at 9 o'clock.

LAWMAKER DENIES BRIBERY CHARGE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23.—City Councilman Thomas W. Fleming was at liberty under $1,000 bond today, pending a hearing next week on charges of bribery.

Walter Ochme, crippled city detective, alleges that he gave Fleming $200 to obtain favorable action from council on a proposal to give Ochme a pension and pay his medical bills.

A check which purports to be the bribe Ochme paid Fleming was produced before the county grand jury yesterday and Fleming was indicted. He pleaded not guilty and trial is to be held next week. Fleming is a prominent Republican politician and the acknowledged leader of the city's Negro voters.

The canoe was made entirely by hand and is the work of native fishermen from the Kona or leeward section of the island.

Two dwellings owned by Mrs. O. D. Nice, in St. Clair avenue, adjoining the lumber yards which were damaged, are being repaired. The two-family dwelling of the D. F. Neills & Sons Company, almost a total loss, probably will be razed.

Occupancy Temporary Quarters.

The Buckeye Lumber and Building company and the D. F. Neills & Sons company have established temporary offices in the nearby Standard pottery pending completion of the building. Lumber stocks are being carried in the Ravine street and Bradshaw avenue yards and also in temporary space. A quick delivery service from Youngstown has been arranged for other stocks.

The Smith Hardware company, which occupied the first floor and basement of the three-story building, has reopened for business following an adjustment of the fire and water losses. Roof of the building which was destroyed in the blaze has been replaced.

The Erwin Machine company, whose shop was wiped out by fire, has also moved to a section of the Standard pottery.

URGE OLD AGE PENSIONS IN OHIO PROPOSAL

Athletic Commission, Aeronautics Bureau Asked.

OTHER MEASURES

Twenty-nine Bills Offered in House and Senate.

By C. H. Haddock.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 23.—Measures providing for creation of a state athletic commission, a state bureau of aeronautics, a state division of the deaf, and for establishment of old-age pensions today awaited reference to various legislative standing committees.

These four bills and 2 others were thrown into the senate and house hoppers late yesterday, making a total of 187 bills introduced since the Ohio legislature convened here on January 22.

A bill providing for creation of a division of the deaf, in the state department of education, was introduced by Senator V. D. Emmons, Akron. The Fraternal order of Eagles is said to be sponsoring the bill, by Representative James T. Anderson, Canton, providing for old-age pensions.

The Anderson bill provides that persons more than 70 years of age may receive pensions, under certain conditions, at the rate of $25 monthly. County pension boards are provided for. Taxes are to be levied in order to create a pension fund. The bill decrees that the total income of each person pensioned, including the pension, shall not exceed $300 a year.

Ask Pence Act Repeal.

Other new bills include: By Senator Harry Carpenter, Steubenville, providing for the repeal of the Pence act regulating public utility rates, decreeing that no increase in any public utility rate shall become effective until after a hearing has been conducted by the state utilities commission, and the commission has authorized collection of the new rates, and providing for the creation of a division of investigation as a part of the state utilities department. This bill is understood to have the personal approval of Governor Myers V. Cooper and other administration leaders.

Suggest Gas Tax Law Change.

By Representative Anderson, Canton, permitting municipalities to use their share of the gasoline tax for new construction as well as for maintenance and repair of streets.

By Representative Wood Derr, Cleveland, permitting women to act as appraisers.

By Representative Robert S. Roush, West Union, disfranchising persons convicted of a felony under federal laws and imprisoned in federal prisons.

Ships in Distress

still afloat at 3 o'clock this morning, according to a brief radio message intercepted by the Radio Marine Corporation here. The message was sent by the United States liner America, one of the vessels racing to the scene in the latest drama of the sea.

British Freighter Lost.

Thirty-five men aboard the British freighter Teesbridge, which reported in an S. O. S. on Sunday night that she was in distress with hatches gone and stowage flooded off Cape Race, Newfoundland, have been given up for lost. The Belgian steamship Calcasier and the Maine of the Atlantic Transport line wireless last night that they had abandoned their search for the freighter after having found no trace of her at the position given.

The three ships steaming to the rescue of the Teesbridge and the Florida are the Dollar liner President Harrison, the United States liner America and the freighter York of the North German Lloyd line. It was estimated that by dawn this morning the America and the President Harrison should have reached the 50-mile area where the two ships were wallowing. The York was expected to arrive before noon.

At noon yesterday, when the S. O. S. calls came in almost simultaneously from the Florida and the Danne-dake, the President Harrison was thought to be only 150 miles away. It was believed, however, that the heavy seas would prevent the rescue ships from making a speed of more than eight or nine knots an hour.

Grave Fears for Crews' Safety.

Capt. George Fried of the America wireless yesterday that the seas were so rough that he could not drive the ship faster than ten knots without danger of breaking her. Three years ago Capt. Fried, then commander of the President Roosevelt, made the heroic rescue of the British freighter Antioch.

While the grave fears were held today for the safety of the 60 men aboard the Florida and the Danne-dake, it was pointed out that hope should not be abandoned until the America and the President Harrison complete their search today of the 50-mile area where the vessels are fighting to keep afloat. In a radio message late yesterday Capt. Guthrie of the President Harrison expressed doubt that he would be able to render any assistance before dawn.

Land broadcasting was halted at intervals yesterday afternoon and last night so that radio messages from the ships could be heard.

"LADDIE BOY," FAMOUS AIREDALE PET OF PRESIDENT HARDING, DIES

NEWTON, Mass., Jan. 23.—"Laddie Boy" is dead. The famous White House airedale, friend and pet of the late President Warren G. Harding, passed away quietly at the home of Harry L. Barker, the secret service man to whose care "Laddie Boy" was given seven years ago when President Harding died.

"Laddie Boy" died with his head resting on the arms of Mrs. Barker, who had nursed him through an old age ailment.

"Laddie Boy," who was a half brother to President Coolidge's dog, "Laddie Buck," came to the White House on March 4, 1921, a gift to President Harding from Charles W. Quetsche, an Ohio admirer, presented on the day of the chief executive's inauguration.

The Harding Memorial society planned to preserve "Laddie Boy" to posterity but he had grown so lean and scrawny it was decided to bury him today.

TWO TRAINMEN DIE IN WRECK

Passenger Injured in Floridan Limited Crash.

MOUNDS, Ill., Jan. 23.—Two trainmen were killed and a passenger seriously injured here today when the fast Florida Limited of the Illinois Central crashed into a freight train.

The engineer and fireman of the freight train were killed. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train saved their lives by leaping from the cab a moment before the crash.

The Floridan crashed into a freight train and the engine catapulted into a ditch. Three Pullmans left the tracks.

The dead are: Leo Wellington, 50, of Paducah, Ky., and Milton Johnson, Negro brakeman of the freight train. A special train from Cairo with doctors and nurses and hospital supplies was rushed to the scene of the wreck, officials here stated.

The accident occurred when the Floridan, about a half hour late, and attempting to make up lost time, crashed into the freight train.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Two trainmen were killed, two others were seriously injured and many passengers were reported injured when the fast Florida Limited was wrecked near Mounds, Ill., according to word received here by officials of the Illinois Central railroad today.

Third Man Evades Posse After Sing Sing "Break."

FUGITIVE KILLER

Missing Prisoner Believed Surrounded by Poses.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The second of three prisoners who escaped from Sing Sing last night, in one of the most daring breaks in the history of the prison, was captured today by Keeper Paul Wilson, as he fled along the New York Central tracks at Phillips Manor, two and a half miles south of the prison.

The prisoner is Frank Hawkes, 25 years old, who is serving 20 years to life for a murder in Manhattan, is still at liberty, but Warden Lewis E. Lawes was confident this morning that he is surrounded by poses.

Wilson, who frustrated the attempt of three men to escape a month ago, was lying low behind a rock at the side of the railroad when he saw Hawkes approaching, running toward New York.

AIR LINES DUE FOR BIG JUMP IN NORTHWEST

Col. Dunwoody Confirms Plans for Service Extension.

WEST POINT MAN

Universal Corporation Chief Sees Amazing Developments.

CHICAGO. — Predicting extensive developments in air lines, both mail and passenger, to the west and northwest with Chicago as the hub, Col. Halsey Dunwoody, executive vice president of the Universal Air Corporation, former assistant to the secretary of war and at the close of the World War assistant chief of the A. E. F. Air Service, has confirmed the purchase of the Continental Air Lines and the extension of the company's lines by some thousand miles. "Aviation is developing so rapidly," said Colonel Dunwoody, "and the public is taking to flying so quickly that it is impossible to keep up with its demands.

Amazing Figures.

"It is difficult to conceive of the opportunities in the various sections of the country, and this is especially true of the Northwest on account of the vast territory to be covered and because the cities are much farther west than in the more densely populated sections of the east and west. "The public can look forward to a development in flying this year which will be amazing. . . Since the absolute safety of straight-away flying has been established it is growing in leaps and bounds."

The acquisition of the Continental lines is the first stepping stone, according to Dunwoody, in the building of a vast mail and passenger system which will touch at practically all important cities and towns as far east as Cleveland and Louisville, with connections to the east and south, and as far west as Kansas City and Minneapolis with connections to the west and northwest.

Col. Dunwoody is a graduate in engineering of George Washington university and the United States Military Academy and was director of Mechanical Engineering at West Point.

By appointment of the war department he served as a member of the Interallied Aviation Commission, other members being the air ministers of the allied powers.

Some five thousand miles of air routes is traveled by the corporation of which he is vice president, which, in addition to its passenger and mail service has begun the establishment of a nation-wide system of aviation schools.

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There is a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascarrize the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no longer, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative, and the familiar little candy Cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. And EVERY drugstore has them.

Bet Her Future on Murder Trial---and Lost!

Roscoe F. Warren, eccentric Kansas City, Mo., clubman, and his school-girl bride, the former Dorothy de Groff.

Bride of Killer Warren Shudders at Death Sentence of Mate.

Roscoe F. Warren, eccentric Kansas City, Mo., clubman, and his school-girl bride, the former Dorothy de Groff.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The 19-year-old bride of Roscoe F. Warren, who married him in 1925 when he was under fifteen-year sentence to the Missouri penitentiary for the murder of John C. Deskin, an associate of Warren's in the Mutual Rocky Mountain club just outside Yellowstone National Park, has lost her bet. When Miss Dorothy de Groff married the eccentric clubman she said she was betting that the supreme court would give him a life term in which he would obtain his freedom. The supreme court did grant him a new trial, but the jury found him guilty and assessed the punishment at death. Now Warren is waiting in the Jackson county jail with two other condemned men for the noose.

Accused of Misusing Funds. Warren, who originated the Rocky Mountain club and influenced many wealthy men here to join it, had been accused of misuse of the club's funds. There was a conference of club officers on the matter.

Warren, who had not been invited to attend the meeting, happened in just as John Deskin was reading a resolution that urged Warren to sever his connection with the club. Warren's oldest son, Neal, by a first marriage, was present.

When Deskin read a sentence con-

CUTE LITTLE ATOM STRUTS ITS STUFF IN "WINGS OVER EUROPE"

By David P. Sentner.

NEW YORK.—"Wings Over Europe" is all about the cute little atom. His atomic ribs strut its stuff across the stage and puffs itself into a condition not unlike the proverbial frog who hallooed himself until he burst.

Only the atom does not burst, otherwise this essay might not hold together.

"Wings Over Europe" is as masculine as a London club. There is not a woman in the cast. The scene is at number ten Downing Street, the most famous address in the book of any diplomat. Around the mahogany table of the British cabinet room, the various cabinet members gather for three acts.

Francis Lightfoot, nephew of the prime minister, has succeeded in putting the atom in a straightjacket. Not satisfied with harnessing it, the youthful scientist determines to ride the little fellow.

Lightfoot asks the assembled cabinet to formulate a constructive program for the use of this new found atomic force by mankind. He gives a few minor demonstrations of his atomic secret by changing sugar to gold and steel to rubber. Lightfoot, however, neglects to change the constituent mental qualities of the cabinet members who reach the majority opinion that mankind is not yet ready for the mastery of the material.

The cabinet members in recording their distrust of humankind declare that if the secret of the atom were given to the race it would eventually be used

Warren leaped to his feet and shouted:

"That's a damned lie." Then he drew a revolver and shot at Deskin, who slumped over a table.

Warren walked out into a hall and fired a shot into his own breast.

He was in the General hospital for three weeks and when Deskin died was taken to the county jail, where he remained until his first trial.

Given 15-Year Sentence. The trial resulted in a fifteen-year sentence and Warren immediately married Miss de Groff just a year out of high school. Warren himself, was 49.

When the verdict sentencing him to death at midnight, March 31, was brought in, Warren was unconcerned. He told his wife, who shuddered as though an electric shock had passed through her, that "they will never stretch my neck," and went jauntily to the county jail to await the outcome of the efforts of his attorneys.

for destructive and debasing purposes.

The young, ethereal Lightfoot argues for the noble qualities of man and pleads for faith in his destiny for good.

"Neither you nor man can tell right from wrong," Lightfoot is told. "Your secret of the atom must be forgotten."

Up to this point, the play is a diverting intellectual conversation. But from then on the drama begins.

Young Lightfoot laughs at the demand of the British royal unmounted. They threaten him.

"You dare to threaten the master of the atom," shrieks the scientist.

And then Lightfoot delivers his ultimatum—that if they do not capitulate by a certain time the next day, he will not only blow up England but destroy the entire world.

After another intellectual huddle, the lads in the frock coats surrender. By this time the young scientist has gone ethically berserk. The remark about him not knowing right from wrong has twisted his mathematical aerial. He announces that he has decided to destroy the world, anyway, and return man to its atomic reservoir in the hope that a new deal may improve matters or matter.

Lightfoot exits after informing the cabinet that he will return at noon to die among his enemies—man.

The cabinet members are convinced that the world will end within thirty minutes. What to do.

What would you do if you had but thirty minutes to live?

Some of the cabinet members do what I would probably do—exactly nothing. Others rave, swear, pray, pace and snarl. They give vent to their real feelings concerning their confederate. One nice fellow suddenly sticks his finger at his friend and tells him he has been lover to his wife for years. Another dignitary, old enough to know worse, begins dancing a jig—suppressed jazzire.

Not being a Theater Guildian proper and ipso facto intellectually deficient, I received the greatest kick out of this scene and the following wheeze. It was the grand line in the play to me. With only a few minutes to go before the apparent end of things, one lordship emits:

"Don't you think we had better tell the Palace about it?"

Well, folks, you know very well that the naughty atom was never exploded. In any event, it would have been an embarrassing development to portray on any man's stage.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Christner "Underdog" In Bout Next Friday With Jack Sharkey

Akron Pug In But 15 'Pro' Bouts

Betting 3 to 1 Against Former Rubber Worker.

WHIPPED HANSEN

But Kayo, Confident. Says "I'll Tag Him."

By Sid Mercer.
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Up to the time he was 30 years old Meyer Wilson Christner did not know the feel of a boxing glove. He is 34 now and has been fighting professionally only a little more than a year. The ex-rubber worker of Akron, Ohio, bridged the gap from his fourteenth professional fight to headline billing at Madison Square Garden by knocking out Knute Hansen in Cleveland last month. That led to his match with Jack Sharkey at the garden next Friday night.

They are betting 3 to 1 that Christner will not win from Sharkey and even money that he will not go the distance. "They" also say he is no boxer, is wide open for the left hook that Sharkey specializes in and hasn't the experience to cope with the crafty veteran.

Boxing for Two Years.

But Kayo Christner, with quiet confidence, says Sharkey can be hit, too. "He'll fall just as quickly as the others when I tag him," Kayo asserts. "I can't train a jaw to withstand a bite alive."

It was not until two years ago that Christner took up boxing. One night he got on the gloves at a factory smoker and knocked out his man. After that he was in great demand at smokers and the idea of capitalizing his popularity began to appeal to him as he moved down one opponent after another.

In 41 bouts, including 15 as a professional, he flattened 37 opponents. Once in Dempsey Camp.

Early in the fall of 1927 Christner was only a raw beginner and had not even thought of turning professional. He wanted to see the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, so he journeyed to Lincoln field and offered his services to Dempsey as a sparring partner. He lasted only a few days, as Dempsey considered him too crude.

Leo Flynn, who was in charge of the Lincoln field camp, remembers Christner well.

"Yes, indeed, I do," chirps Flynn. He sacked out Jacko on the mug one day and Dempsey had to grab to keep his feet."

Christner received an education at St. Mary's industrial school near Baltimore—the same institution that gave Babe Ruth to baseball.

As a small boy at St. Mary's he remembers Al Johnson as the school's best singer. Later he "slept two beds away" from Babe Ruth in a dormitory. He used to catch Ruth when the Babe pitched for the school team.

PUT NUMBERS ON YANKS' BACKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Although it would seem that every fan from coast to coast should be familiar with the features of the world's champion New York Yankees, the owners of the club think otherwise. They have arranged to put huge ten-inch navy blue numbers on the backs of the Yankee uniforms so that "casual fans" from out of town may identify the players instantly by referring to a score card. Babe Ruth will be No. 3, corresponding to his position in the batting order.

DEFIANCE CAGE QUINTET WINS

BOWLING GREEN, O., Jan. 23.—After piling up a lead in the first few minutes of the game, Defiance college's basketball quintet, displaying remarkable defensive play, outpointed Bowling Green by a 34 to 21 score here last night.

Bowling Green had to be contented with but seven points in the second half. The first period ended with Defiance leading 21 to 13. Lloyd Greer, Bowling Green was the star of the game, sinking eight baskets for a point score of 16.

Three Stars of Canton Quint Here Tonight

Harry Jacobs, forward.

Ted Coombs.

Glenn Adair, forward.

Jacobs, Adair and Coombs are three outstanding members of the Canton Sherer Soda Grills who scuffle with the East Liverpool club tonight on the auditorium court, Second street.

The Cantonians are coming to East Liverpool with mighty few losses chalked up against them over their 1,500 miles of campaigning since they opened their season, among their victims being the strong Brown-Guska quint of Toronto.

Ted Coombs will appear at one of the forward positions in tonight's engagement. He is regarded as one of the best combination scorers and point makers turned out at Canton McKinley high school in a number of years.

Johnny Jacobs, former Ohio State varsity performer, and captain of the Sherers, will occupy a guard berth and "Red" Van Allman, one of Canton's star "sandlotters" will jump center.

Van Allman will have his work cut out for him against George Ramsey, formerly of the famous Pittsburgh Morris, now with the Goldensons of the Allegheny county circuit. Ramsey was named as the best pivot man in the Allegheny loop for the first half of the season.

Along with Ramsey will come Nate Lippe, forward, with the Miele-Francklinas of the same circuit. In all probability Lippe will pair up with Firth Smith on the scoring posts and little improvement could be asked there. At the guards will be found English and Wyant, with Joe Canine, whose versatility fits him for virtually any position on the club, in reserve.

The basketball program will get underway at 7:30, the main event being preceded by a tilt between the Brian Clothiers of East Liverpool and the Industrial Aces of East Palestine.

The probable lineup:

Canton..... East Liverpool
Coombs..... F..... Lippe
H. Jacobs..... F..... Smith
Adair..... C..... Ramsey
J. Jacobs..... G..... English
Van Allman..... G..... Wyant

Chicago Plans Two National Prep Classics

Preparations for Basketball, Track Meet Under Way.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Preparations for the nation's two outstanding classics for prep school athletics, the National Interscholastic Basketball Tournament and the Stag Track Interscholastic, are already under way at the University of Chicago. The basketball interscholastic, goal of thousands of the country's high school teams, will be held April 2 to 6 inclusive, and the track meet, which annually brings approximately a thousand and coming stars to Stag Field, will be run off May 31 and June 1.

Coach H. O. Crisler, manager of the tournaments, has 10,000 invitations ready to send to the various high schools and academies of the country. The basketball tournament is open only to state champions or other title holders, and is confined to high schools only. The track meet is open to all who enter and is conducted in two divisions, for academics and high schools.

The national basketball title was won last year by Ashland, Kentucky, which defeated Canton, Ill., 15 to 10 in the final game. The consolation title was won by Wheeling, W. Va., in a 29 to 28 overtime contest with Nantuxuck, Conn. This year's tournament will be the eleventh of the series.

Fort Collins, Col. won the high school track title, with 56 points, Froebel high with Gary being second with 38. Mooseheart, Ill., took the academy title, with 38 points, Lake Forest finishing in second position with 26.

DUKE 'DEVILS' ON PITT GRID CARD

DURHAM, N. C., Jan. 17.—Navy and the University of Pittsburgh will appear on the 1929 football schedule of Duke University here, it has been announced.

As the newest member of the Southern Conference, the Duke Devils completed their most successful season in 1928 with victories over Boston college, South Dakota university, and other strong foes, and early plans for the 1929 grid propose a schedule equal to that of other major colleges of the South.

The Pittsburgh game will be played at Durham when the stadium, now under construction, is dedicated. This stadium will have a seating capacity of approximately 35,000, and will be one of the most complete in the Conference.

GIANTS' PITCHERS SIGN CONTRACTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—With the receipt of the signed contract of Fred Fitzsimmons, all the regular pitchers of the New York Giants have been lined up for the 1929 season.

Sweden now has one automobile to every 55 inhabitants.

OHIO U. DOWNS WEST LIBERTY

ATHENS, O., Jan. 23.—Hitting their stride in the second half of the game, Ohio university cakers overcame West Liberty Normal, (W. Va.) 49 to 36, here last night.

The visitors were ahead at the first half, due to sensational basket shooting. After knotting the count at 20 all during the second half, the Ohio quintet forged ahead and then "put the game on ice."

For the Bolcats, Hart and Bramer were high point men, scoring 15 and 13, respectively. Holmes, center, starred for the visitors, making 11 points.

Chicago Cubs To Train in Many States

Old Theatrical Barnstormers Shamed by Bruins.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Some of the barnstorming records of those old "Uncle Tom's Cabin" theatrical companies will go into jeopardy this spring when the Chicago Cubs start their spring exhibition games.

Thirty-two barnstorming appearances of the Bruins have been arranged by Manager Joe McCarthy after the Cubs and their pre-season workouts at Catalina Island, Southern California. Games will be played in California, Arizona, Texas and Missouri.

The Chicago National leaguers are forced this season to leave balmy California a week early because the Pacific Coast league decided to gather the kale while the sun shines and open the coast season earlier.

Opens Feb. 14.

The training season for the Cubs opens on February 14 when the Bruin pitchers and catchers leave for Catalina, an island off Los Angeles, at one time a rendezvous for Spanish pirates.

The second squad of the Cubs will leave February 23 for Catalina and training activities will be in full swing by March 1.

March 8, 9 and 10 exhibition games will be played in Los Angeles between the Bruins and coast league teams and on March 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 the Cubs-consters series will be continued.

The Detroit Tigers and the Cubs will get stiff workouts in the games following. These will be played in Los Angeles March 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24.

Hit the Road.

The Cubs hit the road proper the next day and March 26 will play the natives in Tucson, Arizona. March 27, the Tigers and Cubs clash at Phoenix, Ariz.

The following day the Chicagoans and the Detroiters resume their feud at El Paso, Texas, and the next day the Cubs play Beaumont at Beaumont, Texas. The Kansas City Blues and the McCarthymen also meet at Beaumont March 30 and 31 and on April 1 either Detroit or Kansas City will be fought by the Cubs at Beaumont.

April 2 and 3 the Detroit Tigers and Cubs will play again at Beaumont and then the Chicago team journeys to Houston, Texas, to play Houston April 1 to 10.

At Kansas City the McCarthymen mix with the Kansas City Blues April 12, 13 and 14.

Touring cars are replacing taxis in regular taxi services in Havana, Cuba.

Golf clubs of Great Britain now have a total membership of 600,000.

Fight Results

AT INDIANAPOLIS.—Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion awarded newspaper decision over Jack Gillespie, Detroit (10).

AT WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—Frankie Garcia, of Utica, N. Y., won decision over Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion (10).

AT MILWAUKEE.—Shuffle Callahan, Chicago, defeated Chief Elkhart, Oklahoma middleweight (8).

AT READING, Pa.—Vincent Forgiome, Philadelphia, won decision over Jack McVey, New York (8).

AT CHICAGO.—Joey Medill, Chicago lightweight was awarded the decision over Spug Myers of Pocatello, Idaho, (10).

High Schools Compete at Northwestern

Ohio Well Represented On Entry List.

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 27.—High schools throughout the country will be invited this spring to compete in the seventeenth annual track, swimming and wrestling meet of Northwestern University. Wrestling will be an innovation at this year's meet, which is to be held here March 22 and 23.

More than 600 high school stars took part in last year's competition and a larger number is expected this year.

Detroit high schools, which were outstanding in the 1928 meet, are again considered likely as the strongest entries. Northwestern high of Detroit won the track meet with 18 points and Northwestern high of the same city placed second, Cass high of Detroit won third place and Western and Mamtramack, also of Detroit, were heavy point gainers.

In the swimming events Highland Park high of Detroit, winner last year by 28 points to 13 over Virginia, Minn., and Evanston high schools, is regarded as one of the strongest candidates for 1929 honors.

Detroit, Virginia, Minn., Evanston, Milwaukee, Akron, O., Cleveland, Toledo, Dubuque, Iowa; Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Ind., Lima, Ohio; Kenosha, Wisconsin; Iowa City, and 12 Chicago high schools are among cities which will be represented at the meet this year.

Tom Robinson, veteran swimming coach at Northwestern, will manage the swim events. Frank Hill, Purple track coach, will conduct the track numbers and Orion Stateville, former Olympic wrestler, the mat events.

Boston Committee Says Charge Was Unauthorized.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Indications were today that the expected investigation of the charge that Paavo Nurmi had been influenced to pass up the Masonic indoor track and field meet at the One Hundred and Second Engineer's armory on Saturday night in favor of the Prolet memorial games in Boston will not take place.

A letter from George Keiser, president of the Masonic Athletic Games committee, to the A. A. U. has apparently ended the affair. Keiser explained that the charge against Nurmi by Jack Harris was unauthorized and that the Mason Games committee extended its apologies to the A. A. U. for the incident. It was stated that Harris made the charges on his own initiative and had resigned his post as secretary of the committee.

VANGUARD

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

But what crushed the spirit most effective was not the style nor the grandeur nor the glitter, but simply the cost of it all. The Vanguard belonged to one man, not a limited company with a capital of 15,000,000 pounds. The Americans had no qualms about the concentration of such a quantity of wealth in the hands of a single individual; for they knew and felt that just as every soldier of Napoleon had a field marshal's baton in his knapsack, so every American citizen has a 2000-ton yacht in his capacious hip pocket. But in the pockets of certain humble Britons were concealed misgivings as to whether all was for the best in the best of all possible worlds. These faint-hearted persons thought of the droves of unemployed in the streets and slums of their industrial towns; they even thought of the perspiring, rebellious kitchen serfs of the Splendide desperately risking a livelihood to snatch perhaps an extra fourpence-halfpenny from the Splendide's managerial till; while Count Veruda, owner of the Vanguard, spent as much on petrol in a month as would have kept seven Neapolitan families for seven years. However, as sherry followed cocktails and champagne followed sherry and port followed champagne and chateau followed port, these lurid sociological qualms vanished away, together with the sense of being morally crushed.

A golden mist spread in the saloon, and through it gleamed the bright truth that everything positively was for the best in the best of all possible worlds. As, of course, it is.

Meanwhile, Count Veruda, with the chief steward behind him, was modestly trying—and not without success—to look as though he were not the owner of the gorgeous Vanguard and a multi-millionaire. Indeed, he wore his wealth most unobtrusively; it was apparently naught to him.

Then a faint vibration made itself felt in the yacht, and particularly in every part of the dining saloon. The vibration grew in strength. And straightaway the more alert spirits in the company began preposterously to suspect that Count Veruda was not all that he seemed to be, that he was indeed a perfidious and cunning pirate, and that the yacht's engines were being made to revolve as the first action in a plot to abduct the entire body of guests and hold them to ransom for incredible amounts in some distant, inhospitable isle hitherto uncharted on Mediterranean maps.

Dismay sat on the faces of several. The dismay spread. Glasses were no longer raised. Gratitude vanished from the hearts of the entertained. The nervous imagination could feel the heaving of the yacht at sea. "That is the dynamo," said Count Veruda, silently laughing. "I expect we're using rather more electricity than usual, and the chief engineer wishes to be on the safe side."

How absurd those slanderous suspicions! But a few of the wary and the timid were not quite reassured. An old lady on Mr. Sutherland's left trembling murmured something in his ear. Mr. Sutherland, gently smiling, tranquillized her ridiculous fears with a word.

"The yacht cannot be moving," said he. "She must have had an anchor down, if not two, and in a comparatively small ship like this the anchor could not possibly have been raised without our hearing the noise of the chain." Still, the old lady was not quite at her ease, and spoke again. Mr. Sutherland forgave her tedious insistence because he knew what old ladies were, always had been and always would be. And not old ladies only. A white screen was at this point let down on the after wall of the dining saloon, and Count Veruda unassumingly announced:

"I now propose, with your permission, to show you the new Valentino film. It has been seen in London and I think, in Paris. But nowhere else."

The whirl of cinema apparatus seemed to put an end to the vibration caused by the dynamo. The dining saloon suddenly became dark. The effect was highly disconcerting. The unrolling of the reel started.

"I hate films," said Mr. Sutherland quietly to the dark young lady who, in the hotel, had expressed doubt as to the authenticity of the Count's title. Mr. Sutherland had contrived that she should be on his right.

"So do I," the young woman replied.

Mr. Sutherland greatly dared.

"Shall we creep out and explore the yacht a bit?"

He trembled lest she should refuse the audacious suggestion.

"Let's," said she.

Mr. Sutherland thrilled in anticipation of joy in the exclusive possession of her companionship.

The darkness hid their furtive departure from the eye of the host. They passed through the lounge into which the dining saloon opened, and so to the deck.

They climbed up one story and leaned speculatively side by side against the rail of the main deck.

The boat deck, with the bridge and the captain's quarters, was above them. The warm Neapolitan glow, relieved now by only a lamp or so at the ends of the long deck, wrapped them softly round about. Not an officer, not a deck hand to be seen. And nothing to be heard save the faint murmur of vibration ascending monotonously from the depths of the ship. A ship of mystery, enfolded in the magic influences of the universal enigma—and those banal idiots were all sweltering in a room downstairs, watching a film!

"I say," said Mr. Sutherland, "you might tell me your name?"

He was aware of agreeable sensations. She was elegant, she was intelligent. He had made some progress with her during dinner—and she with him.

"Harriet Perkins."

"Thank you."

"Do you mean to say you didn't know?"

"How should I? I never speak to any one in hotels?"

"And quite right too! If you do, you may find yourself glued to a bore for the rest of your stay before you know where you are. What's yours?"

"My what? Christian name?"

"Of course not," she laughed. "Your size in gloves." Septimius.

She turned a glance on him and clapped her hands.

"I've won 500 pounds," she said.

"A bet?"

"Yes. But only with myself."

"Oh!"

"I always knew you were the man in the city. You are, aren't you? There couldn't be two Septimius Sutherlands, could there?"

"No. I am in the city."

"Everybody knows about you—except people who stay in hotels. How thrilling!"

He was flattered, and somewhat surprised.

"Then do you read about company meetings?" he asked.

"Yes," she said. "And I read prospectuses and things."

"Well, well!"

"I only read them for fun, like divorce reports. You like divorce reports, don't you?"

"Oh, of course!" he admitted blithely.

What he especially liked in the composition of Harriet Perkins was that you could talk to her as to a man. In his simplicity he had not grasped, or he had forgotten, that the first care of every woman of the world is to be talked to as a man. The desire to be talked to as a woman comes later. Long ago, what he had liked in the composition of the delicious, maddeningly feminine creature who afterward became Mr. Sutherland was that he could talk to her as to a man. And it had not yet occurred to him that his daughters were constantly endeavoring to get themselves talked to as men by men.

Organization.

"Some dinner!" said Miss Perkins reflectively.

"Yes," Septimius agreed. "And it was a rather wonderful effort in organization, that dinner was! Thirty people, I suppose."

"Twenty-three," Harriet casually corrected him.

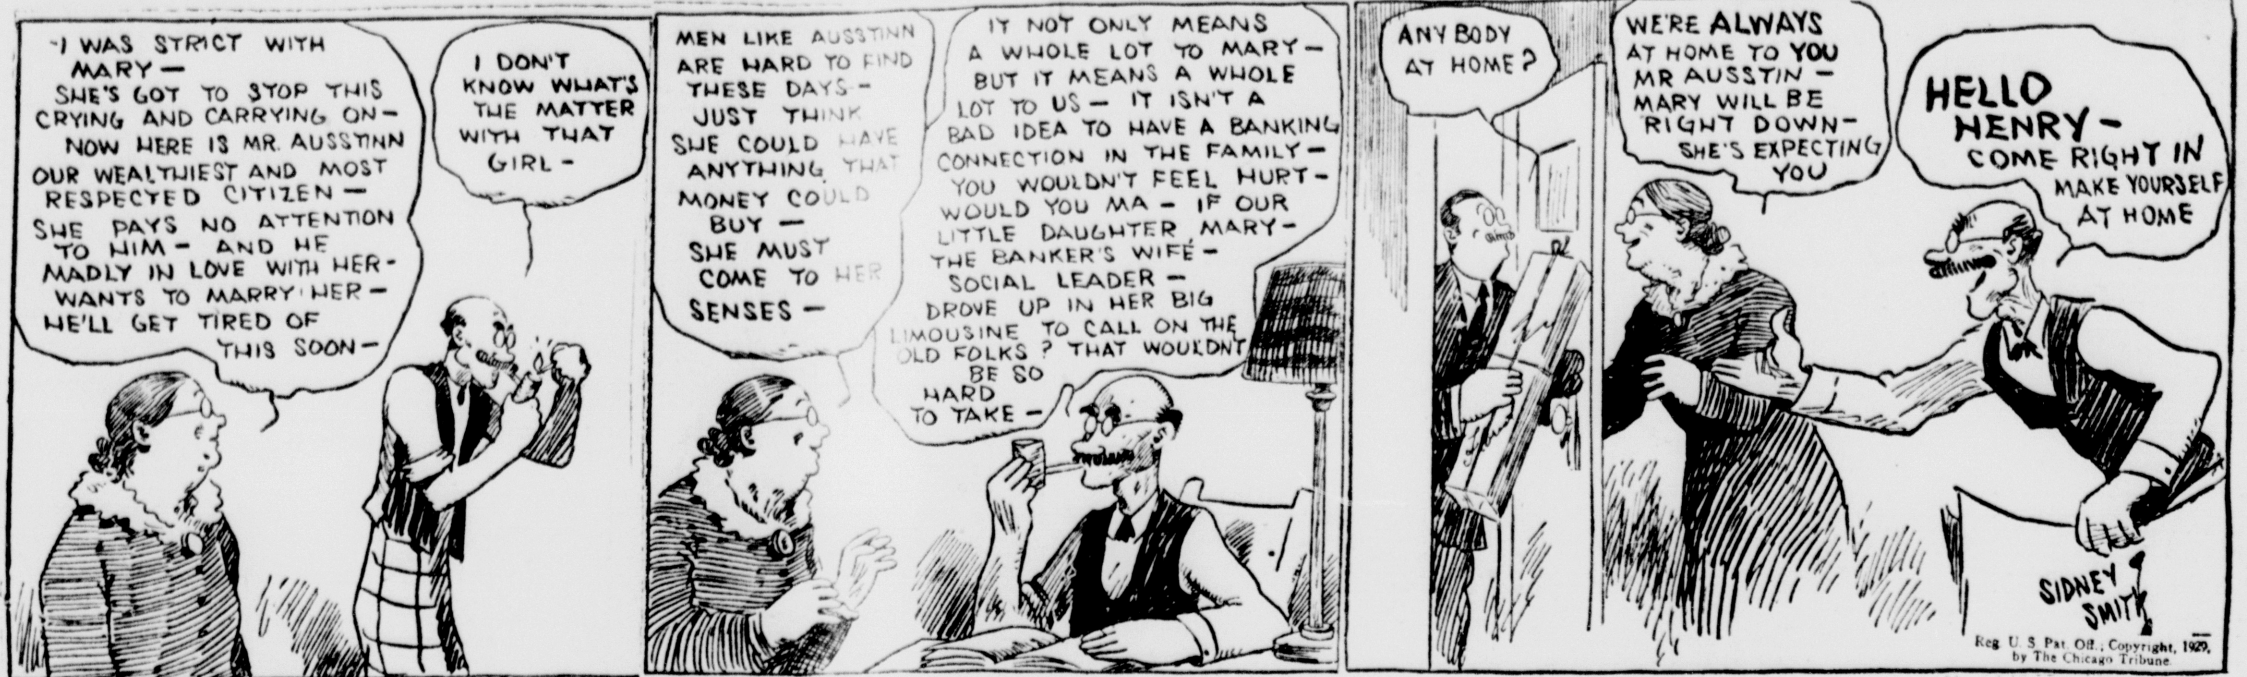

"Oh!" Septimius was a little disturbed by his error of 30 per cent in a computation. "Well, twenty-three then. It would be reckoned a bigish dinner in any household, wouldn't it?"

"It certainly would!" Harriet eagerly assented.

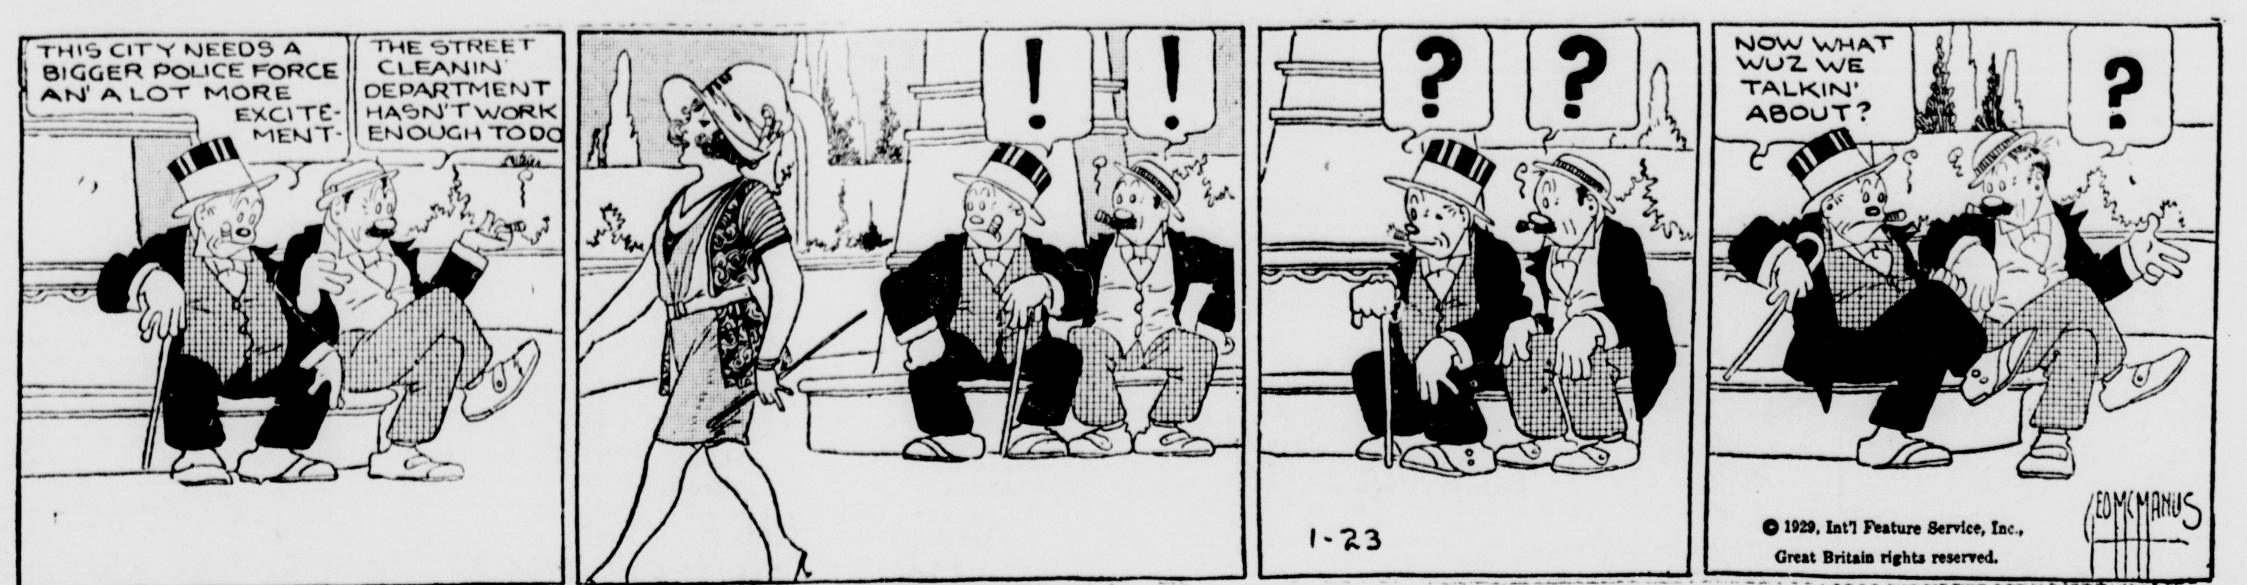

"And considering that our friend the count—just have sprung it on his staff at a moment's notice! Why, I understand that at 6 o'clock nothing was known of any trouble in the hotel kitchen. And there couldn't have been twenty minutes before our sailing, or accept his invitation and our arrival on board, and when we got here everything was ready. I've always been interested in questions of organization, and I must say that tonight's affair is one of the finest examples of sheer, rapid organization I've yet come across."

And she gives the uproarious recitation, "Mrs. Cohn at the Beach". The story of the play, which was written by Mark Canfield and adapted for the screen by Robert Lord, is built around the song—"My Man." It is the love story of an ugly duckling, whose one and only lover, and promised husband, is stolen from her by a younger sister. It is out of disappointment that the half-forgotten songs well up with new and tragic meanings bringing belated fame.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

- 1.—Is it correct for a girl to hold a man's coat while he puts it on or on matter what age or where they happen to be?
- 2.—What should a girl say when her boy friend introduces her to some one else as "his sweetheart"?
- 3.—Do you consider it love when a young man shows his "affections" only when he is alone with the girl?

We thank you sincerely in advance.

INQUISITIVE AND CURIOSITY.

INQUISITIVE: It is absolutely incorrect for a girl to hold a man's coat, unless he be elderly or a cripple.

CURIOSITY: In the first place the young man should never introduce the girl in this manner. It is decidedly bad form. The correct acknowledgement to any introduction is "How do you do?"

- 3.—I certainly do. For it is distinctly bad form to make any public demonstration of affection. Of course, the young man should show consideration and courtesy to the young lady in public, but he is not expected, nor is it ever in good taste, to parade one's affection to the gaze of all and sundry.

Business Men's Night At Nazarene Church

Rev. J. M. Huff Will Preach Tonight on
"Seeing Jesus."

CHESTER, W. Va., Jan. 23.—Rain, snow and sleet held down slightly the attendance at the Nazarene church revival last night but in no wise tempered the gospel appeal of the Rev. J. M. Huff, visiting evangelist, who is directing the campaign initiated by the pastor, Rev. J. Ward and his congregation.

With the Rev. Mr. Huff are his daughter, Miss Opal Huff, who is accompanying him, and the musical directing done by R. T. Eby, all of Olivet, Ill. The subject of the Rev. Mr. Huff was "Intercessory Prayer," which he based on Exodus 32:21-32.

Mr. Eby sang twice before the preaching was begun. His numbers were: "Why Didst Thou Doubt?" and "You Shall Have Your Desire Sometime, Somewhere."

Need for True Repentance.
It will be "Business Men's Night" at the revival tonight. The Rev. Mr. Huff will preach on the theme "Seeing Jesus."

"Moses did not try to cover up the sins of his people," the Rev. Mr. Huff said last night. "And today it is idle to plead good morals or fine qualities without recognizing the need for true repentance and confession."

"Moses came before God with an unselfish desire; he did not look to his own interest but to those of all Israel. The people's interests were his interests."

No Selfish Prayer.
"Prayer must ever be for such things as are intended to aid in the building of God's kingdom. As true Christian people today cannot get a selfish prayer through."

The Rev. Mr. Huff spoke glowingly in describing how Moses, thus interceding for his sinful people, stepped between them and death.

He likewise concluded with a pretty picture of Christ, years later, thrusting Himself between the world and death by reason of abounding sin.

ASK LICENSES FOR AVIATORS

State Senate Will Seek Supervision of Flying.

Supervision of aviation in West Virginia is provided in a bill introduced yesterday in the legislature by State Senator Wright Huggins, of Wheeling, member of the upper house from the first district.

The bill would make operation in any form of aviation without a federal license a violation of the state laws. Aviators would be required to carry federal licenses and present them upon the demand of any passenger or local or state officer.

Federal licenses for planes also would be required. Penalties of $500 or one year in jail, or both, are proposed.

The measure also would require aviators to be at an altitude of at least 2,500 feet in passing over cities, towns and villages, and a penalty of $500 or one year imprisonment, or both, would be provided for violations.

The bill would authorize any county, city, town, or village or groups of counties, cities or other communities to establish an airport or landing field. The county court or local legislative body would be authorized to direct or employ an officer, board, or control body for an airport. The county court or local legislative body would also be authorized to acquire land, to be paid for either by appropriation or wholly or in part from the sale of bonds of the county, city, town or village, as the county court or local legislative body determined.

Women anglers of New Zealand are taking in deep-sea fishing.

But NO Baths!

Here is a 24-story hotel a stone's throw from New York's Gay White Way that hasn't a single bath—honest! The reason is that it was designed exclusively for automobiles. No human hand touches a car once it is run in on the ground floor; an electric "parker" takes charge, maneuvers the auto to a lift and thence to whatever "room" is assigned to it. The cross-section shows how the cars are tucked away high above the street. Below, a car being taken in tow by the electric parker.

Making it Necessary to Condense
All Our Merchandise in our Men's,
Women's and Boys' Apparel Departments Located on the Second Floor—

ALTHOUGH it is unavoidable, we regret very much the inconvenience to our patrons when shopping during our altering and remodeling. The work must go ahead on schedule time so that the "New Erlanger's" may throw its doors open to the public as soon as possible.

The workmen are now tearing down the partition walls on our Second Floor. This has congested our department on this floor materially. To relieve this unpleasant condition and overcome to some extent any shopping disadvantages we are making price reductions that will make your inconveniences trifling in comparison with the savings which we have "in store" for you.
